

ORDER IGNORED BY BURBIDGE

Did Not Take Charge of Police Department Yesterday.

WILL MANDAMUS AUDITOR

LEGAL STEPS TO FORCE HIM TO PAY OFFICERS.

The resolution of the city council ignoring George A. Sheets as chief and ordering Captain John Burbridge to assume charge of the department has been ignored by the police as supreme by the council has ignored Chief Sheets. The latter is still running the department, and says he proposes to continue to do so. The only hitch is the tie-up of the salaries of the officers, and the department will attempt to break this without much delay.

Mandamus proceedings will be commenced against City Auditor Reiser to compel him to pay the salaries of the men for the past month. This, it is believed, will settle the matter so far as the officers are concerned. Chief Sheets proposes to take his case into the courts for settlement if Auditor Reiser insists on withholding his salary. Just when the mandamus proceedings will be commenced the officers have not decided, but it will probably be within the next two or three days.

Policemen Ignore Council Resolution. Notwithstanding the resolution of the council, the desk of chief of police was held down as usual yesterday by Chief Sheets. He issued orders and made no effort to follow the instructions of the council and assume charge. He went right along in the accustomed position as usual, as the second in authority. The policemen from the first sergeant down said:

"So far as I am concerned George Sheets is chief, and none here to do as he orders. He is chief of police and we shall recognize him as such."

Captain Burbridge, when asked what he proposes to do in regard to the orders of the council, replied:

"This is not my fight. Things are going along all right as they are, and I suppose they will continue to do so. I have nothing more to say about the matter."

Captain Burbridge would not say that he would not assume charge as ordered by the council, but the fact remains that he did not even attempt to take charge, and if the old saying that "actions speak louder than words" is true, he declines to follow the instructions of the council.

Will Mandamus Auditor Reiser.

The only thing that is troubling the department is the refusal of the city auditor to pay the monthly salaries of the men. They were returned to the department with instructions that they should be approved by Captain Burbridge before they would be paid.

The payroll for the month of March was returned to the department with instructions that they should be approved by Captain Burbridge before they would be paid.

Chief Sheets, when asked if they would commence mandamus proceedings to get the officers' pay, said:

"We'll do that. We propose to get the boys their money, and we will. He stated that some of the officers would probably take action, as they could do it under the circumstances. When told that Auditor Reiser was contemplating mandamus proceedings against him to get him to sign the payroll, the chief said:

"I don't think he can. It isn't his kink if the department is willing to go on without pay. It is for us to maintain him to get our wages. I don't care about him holding up my wages for a time, but if he continues to do it I will take my case into court to settle it. I think one mandamus will suffice to settle the matter so far as the other officers are concerned."

Mayor Criticizes the Auditor. Mayor Thompson, in expressing himself about the matter, said:

"I think it is a shame that the wages of all the boys should be held up because of this fight. It is not so much if they only held up sheets' pay, but it isn't fair to the other boys to hold out theirs. I believe, however, that the matter can be settled without legal proceedings. At any rate, the boys will get their pay."

Auditor Reiser evidently did not want to force the issue any further yesterday, for he asked an opinion of City Attorney Nye if it would be lawful for him to audit the payroll without a certificate as to their correctness from the head of the department. When informed that he could not do it, the auditor sent the payroll back to the police station, with the request that Captain Burbridge certify to them.

If City Attorney Nye had ruled that it was not necessary for a certificate, Auditor Reiser would have audited all the salaries excepting that of Chief Sheets. He would have ignored the latter's claim, because he does not recognize the action of the council in electing him.

Auditor Reiser gave the implication yesterday that if Captain Burbridge did not certify the payroll before a reasonable length of time, that perhaps mandamus proceedings might be brought to compel him to act in the premises.
